Former Wetaskiwinite Passes Away Under the Very Saddest Circumstances

Executor's Sale of Farm Property

After considerable delay and much work the organization of a military unit in the city is about an accomplished fact. Following the recommendation of officers the D.O.C. forwarded the necessary forms to be signed by the provincial officers and these are now at Ottawa and the commissions confirming the appointments are expected to arrive within the week.

One of the main reasons for the delay in the organization of a military unit in the city is about an accomplished fact. Following the recommendation of officers the D.O.C. forwarded the necessary forms to be signed by the provincial officers and these are now at Ottawa and the commissions confirming the appointments are expected to arrive within the week.

The many friends of Mrs. T. G. Bosworth, were shocked on Saturday evening last to learn that she had passed away at her home in Leduc. Two weeks previously she gave birth to a fine healthy daughter, and she was recovering nicely until complications set in. She was in her 30th year. Her maiden name was Alice L. Galkins, and she was born in Beatrice, Neb. About seven years ago she and her sorrowing husband came to Wetaskiwin, and by her gentility and sociability soon won a host of friends.

Ladies Aid of the Methodist Church, a wreath and pillow from the family. She leaves a sorrowing husband, two daughters, one of whom is only two weeks old, a father and two sisters. We join in extending the deepest heartfelt sympathy to the bereaved family.

Council Holds First Meeting

Standing Committees Appointed for the Year

The inaugural meeting of the City Council took place on Monday evening at the Council Chamber, with all the members present except Ald. Gross.

E. Roberts, City Clerk, stated that Mayor Elect Walker and Ald. Elect Gross, Wallace and Gohard, had taken the necessary oath of office.

In the mayor's opening address he stated that he was glad to meet the new council and congratulated them upon their election and the ratification of the city in the choice they had made. There would be lots of business to be transacted during the year and he hoped that all their deliberations would be amicable and that the legislation passed would be in the best interests of the city.

The matter of the striking of committees was then considered when it was moved by Ellis-Gohard that the matter of the selection of the personnel be left with His Worship, Carried.

The following are the committees recommended by the mayor, the first name in each instance being chairman.

Finance—Ellis, Enman, Gohard.
Public Works—Gross, Enman, Watson.
Fire and Water—Enman, Gross, Watson.

Electric Light—Watson, Ellis, Wallace.
Police, Market, License and Relief—Wallace, Gross and Watson.

Cemetery and Parks—Gohard, Gross, Ellis.

Ellis-Gohard—That the draft of committee be approved. Carried.

His worship intimated that the appointment of the Public Library Board, Public Health Board, the Hospital Board, and the Municipal offices would take place at the next meeting.

Meeting then adjourned to the call of the chair.

Fire Boys Have Accident on Way to Fire

The citizens were alarmed on Monday afternoon last when the peals of the fire bell gave warning that a fire had broken out in the residence of E. H. O'Brien. Before the alarm was given D. L. Bove noticed flames issuing from the residence and rushing over had the fire extinguished before the arrival of the brigade. Fortunately little damage was done apart from the burning of curtains and some clothing. The cause of the conflagration is attributed to children playing with a lighted picture machine.

As the brigade were rushing to the scene of the fire an accident occurred which might easily have been fatal to several members of the brigade. In turning the corner near the Catholic school the hose wagon slipped and coming in contact with the sidewalk was turned turtle throwing the members of the brigade heavily onto the walk. Chief of Police James received injury to his back, as well as a nasty gash on the head, which required medical attention. He will be confined to the house for several days. The others were more fortunate, getting off with only slight injuries. One wheel of the hose wagon was demolished.

BORN
In VVetaskiwin, on the 6th inst., to Mr and Mrs Ed. Rix, a son.
HENDERSON—In VVetaskiwin on the 5th inst., to Mr and Mrs J. E. Henderson, a son.

DIED
PATENAUD—In VVetaskiwin, on the 2nd inst., the 8 months old daughter of Mr and Mrs Pat Patenaud. The infant took place in the Roman Catholic cemetery on Saturday.

NOISES OF PEKING.

Hideous Din Raised by the Vendors That Throng the Streets.

An analysis of the street noises of Peking has been made by the correspondent of a western American newspaper and ought to be useful when the anti-noise crusade reaches the orient. The great cause of confusion he finds is the various street vendors, each of whom is armed with a noise producing instrument by which he procures his trade.

The barber has two prongs of steel through which he draws a spike and thus makes a loud whir. The seller of sweetmeats holds in his right hand two brass cups which he jingles together. The buyer of old clothes taps a small drum with a bit of tarred bamboo, getting by this combination a plunk, plunk that attracts trade. The man who has wicker baskets to sell beats half a gourd with a drumstick, the clothes seller swings a drum which has two bits of metal attached to it by strings, the toy dealer strikes a brass gong of a peculiarly penetrating tone, the knife grinder claps three blocks of iron together, and the seller of charcoal announces his coming by a repeated tap, tap on a block of wood.

The vendor manages to introduce a little variety. He is armed with a wooden drum, which he taps in different measures to mark the different hours of the night. The sound of his drum, however, carries no certain assurance. On the night when Peking was looted you would not have known from him that anything was wrong. In the intervals of the ride the sound of his drum rose undimmed, signalling in superb nonchalance the exciting hours.

COMFORTED THE LADIES.

A Marshal of France Who Was a Hero, a Gallant and a Dandy. Blaise de Montieu was a soldier and a marshal of France who fought through half the sixteenth century. Like a true Gascon, at his was, he added to his great physical qualities courage, high spirits and unquenchable gaiety.

When the Italian viceroy Blaise de Montieu commanded the defense of Stenno during a prolonged siege. When the town was reduced to a few ounces of bread daily Blaise was overcome with sickness and had himself carried about in a chair muffled up in furs.

But perceiving that the inhabitants, especially the women, were "thus rendered apprehensive of their fate should he die"—so runs an excerpt from De Montieu's "Commentaries"—he called for a pair of crimson velvet breeches laid over with gold lace, very finely cut, for they were made at his town when he was forced to leave. He put on a doublet of the same and a shirt of crimson silk and gold twist, then a buff collar over which he put his arms, very daintily.

He was at that time wearing gray and white "in honor of a fair lady to whom he was a servant when he had been a soldier." So he put on a hat of gray silk with a gray silver band and a plume of heron's feathers set with silver spangles.

He also put on a short cassock of gray velvet garnished with "little plates of silver at two fingers' distance from one another and lined with cloth of silver, all open between the plates." Then he "rubbed his face with Greek wine till he brought a little color into his cheeks and drew a small diamond with a little bit of bread."

"He then looked at himself in the glass, strutting before his officers, though he had not the strength to lift a chicken, and rode through the town to the great comfort of all beholders."

Two Pair Ones.

During one of Edwin Forrest's engagements in Boston a poor artist called several times to see the great actor at the old Whitthrop House. Each time he brought a picture which he had painted. He finally left it with a note stating that he was in need of more canvases. Forrest read the note and took the wrapping from the picture. It proved to be a painting of himself as Shakespeare. Forrest stood upon it a moment and then ejaculated to the clerk: "Give him $10. If he is as poor as his picture he must be on the point of starvation."

The Two Garriks.

George Glick, uncle of the celebrated David, was the latter's most devoted slave and laborious pack horse. On coming behind the scene he inquired humbly: "Has David scolded me?" It being asked once how George came to be so soon after the demise of his famous brother, a wag replied: "David wanted him."

Diplomatic.

"Am I all the world to you, Jack?" he told her and so made the classiest double play of planning her and keeping to the exact truth—Boston Transcript.

Resigned.

"Mrs. Dibble wears a resigned look." "Yes. After she married Dibble she realized that nothing worse could ever happen to her."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Our own heart and soul other men's opinions forms our true house—Cure ridge.

Sunday School Lesson

By EVANGELINE

THE DEBUT OF MAN

Jan. 12, Genesis 2: 25

Golden Text—"God created man in His own image."

The lesson should be full of interest to those in a state of uncertainty as to whether their ancestors came from the Garden of Eden or from the Zoological Gardens.

Though many of our readers, doubtless, are more concerned about the ascent of man in Christ and the restoration of the image of God some still cling to the old theory and seem to glory in reverting to what they believe to be the original type—the ape.

In the lesson we have two versions of the creation of man. The first is in Chapter 1: 27. The second in chapter 2: 7-24. In the first version man and woman seem to have been created simultaneously, hence upon Adam's fall the whole race is affected. In the second version the woman is created from the rib of Adam, and her fall affects only her.

"WOMAN IS A MERE POSTSCRIPT OF CREATION."

As in the original purpose man was to be male and female, here we have the account of how that was realized.

"God said Let us make man in our image after our likeness: and God created man in His own image: male and female created he them: and the Lord God formed man of the dust of the ground, and breathed into him the breath of life: and man became a living soul."

From which we learn that the "Elohim," plural of "Eloah" God joined to a verb in the singular "created" show Trinity acting in unity let us as the real force working behind and through all things and that it was the purpose of God that men and women and should not only bear but that they should be the very image of that Father, possessing within themselves that strange mysterious radiative force, the sacred person of the Trinity—the Holy Spirit.

God's purpose was that His children should be the living embodiment of love, of holiness, of power, of mastery, of wisdom, that they should be emanations of Himself—sons of God upon the earth. What dignity, what sacredness should characterize every human being in view of this.

Though the image has been marred by sin it has not been entirely obliterated. It was perfectly realized in the ideal Son of Man and "I do not yet appear what we shall be," but wait.

JUST WAIT

and it may not be long when "He shall appear and we shall be like Him for we shall see His likeness."

Now let us consider briefly the Divine origin of marriage.

"And the Lord God said it is not good for man to be alone. I will make him a help meet for him."

Cordell says, "There is no anything in the universe. The very microbes of disease go in pairs, light and darkness, the storm and the calm, the right and the left, the water and the female—all things are dual and the source of humanity are for the most part the result of wrong halves of the puzzle that will never fit into place."

Man is bound by all the powers of the universe to give his immortal life to duty and attendant poverty without which it cannot attain its highest ends.

If he is not

SPIRITUALLY MATED

his marriage is useless as it only

All Skin Diseases

ARE OCCASIONED BY

BAD BLOOD.

No one can expect to be free from some form or other of skin trouble unless the blood is kept in good shape.

The blood can easily be purified and the skin diseases cured by the use of Burdock Blood Bitters, that old and widely known blood medicine.

It has been on the market for over 35 years and its reputation is unimpaired. Mrs. Lillie Mitchell, Guelph, Ont., writes—"I was troubled with eczema. My body was covered with awful itching skin eruptions. Although I tried many different remedies I could get nothing to give me relief. Finally I got a bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters, which completely cured me."

interposes fresh obstacles between himself and his intended progress. With no spiritual bond between them they people the world with more or less incapable, unthinking and foolish creatures like themselves. Somewhere and somehow, every two component parts of a whole must come together sooner or later. Herein may be found the key to

THE GREAT LOVE TRAGEDIES OF THE WORLD

The wrong halves match, the right halves finding each other out of a rushing together recklessly and impetuously because the restless law draws them together—the law is the law of many a life's disaster as well as of many a life's attainment and victory. And the trouble or the triumph will never be lessened till human beings learn that in love which is the greatest and most divine of all earthly emotions, the soul and the body must first be conformed and that one can fulfill the highest possibilities of his or her nature till each individual soul is conformed with which is as one with it in the thought and in the comprehension of its higher ends.

THAT ONLY OTHER

The fullest meaning of the marriage law is revealed in the relation of Christ to His Church. "Husbands, love your wives even as Christ also loved the Church and gave Himself for it."

Listen!
Have you heard about Peps? Peps is a new scientific preparation put up in tablet or capsule form, which provides an entirely new and effective treatment for colds, coughs and lung and throat troubles.

There is no connection between the lungs and the stomach. Suppose something were wrong with your stomach—say indigestion, or ulceration—would you think of taking some medicine which went to your stomach, but to your lungs? Certainly not! Why then, when your lungs and chest are affected, should you take your stomach—any absolute separate organ—with medicine? Is it not better to treat the ailing organ direct?

You probably already know that Peps is a direct treatment for colds, coughs and lung and throat troubles. It is a direct treatment for colds, coughs and lung and throat troubles. It is a direct treatment for colds, coughs and lung and throat troubles.

Now let us consider briefly the Divine origin of marriage.

"And the Lord God said it is not good for man to be alone. I will make him a help meet for him."

Cordell says, "There is no anything in the universe. The very microbes of disease go in pairs, light and darkness, the storm and the calm, the right and the left, the water and the female—all things are dual and the source of humanity are for the most part the result of wrong halves of the puzzle that will never fit into place."

NAVAL GUN TELESCOPES.

Device That Made Possible Accurate Long Range Firing.

It was about the year 1885 that the telescope was first tested in connection with the firing of a modern gun. The tremendous concussion broke the lens, however, so that in order to use it all the telescopes had to be detached from the gun before firing, thereby entailing a loss of several seconds in time after which had been taken.

Later, to obviate this defect, the telescope was adjusted to the axis of the gun by a system of parallel arms moving up and down in unison with the gun, though detached from it. This of course was a great improvement, but there were still grave practical defects.

Well, some in the early thirties Henry G. Mott, a young midshipman at Annapolis, took a medium sized Herschel, quiet mounted, but a building the football field, interested himself in the study of optics. Naturally enough, his thoughts were directed to the defective lenses of the gun telescopes. The lenses broke when the guns were fired; therefore it was necessary to install a nonbreakable lens.

One day years later, while stationed in Washington, Mott called a friend of his brother officers to the window near his desk on the second floor of a building in the navy yards. He showed them a lens with a metal band "hatched" around its circumference. Then he opened the window and deliberately threw the lens with all his might upon the brick pavement below. The others knew of his pet hobby and thought he had given it up in disgust and had taken this way of telling them so. But he put on his hat, lit his cigarette and took them down. He led them down the stairs and considerable joking and out to the spot where the lens lay on the pavement. The glass was unbroken. The spot where the lens lay was the same as the spot where the lens lay when it was thrown. The glass disk with its metal collar upon the brick pavement was the signal for the nation to begin to build their Dreadnoughts—American Battleships.

LONG HAired MEN.

They Caused a Vigorous Protest in Massachusetts in 1909.

The following protest signed by Joseph Endicott, Governor; Thomas Duff, deputy governor; Richard Bellingham, Richard Saltonstall, Increase Nowell, William Dimes, Thomas Flint, Robert Bridges and Simon Bradstreet was published in Massachusetts in 1910:

"Protest, against wearing long hair of the governor, etc., of Massachusetts."

"Whereas the wearing of long hair, after the manner of Indians and barbarous nations, has begun to invade New England, contrary to the rule of God's word, which says it is a shame for man to wear long hair, as also the commendable custom generally of all the gallies of our nation, and with these few reasons."

"We, the magistrates, who have signed this paper, for the showing of our own innocence in this behalf, do declare and manifest our dislike and detestation against the wearing of such long hair, as against a thing unclean and unmanly, whereby men do deform themselves and offend other modest men and do corrupt good manners. We do therefore earnestly insist that all the officers of this jurisdiction, as well as the members of their respective churches be not defiled therewith; that so, as they prove obedient, and will not reform themselves, may have God and man in witness against them. The third month 26th day, 1910."

The Stranger.

A stranger knocked at a man's door and told him of a fortune to be made.

"Um," said the man. "It appears that considerable effort will be involved."

"Oh, yes," said the stranger; "you will pass many sleepless nights and tell me, what do you think?"

"Um," said the man. "And who are you?"

"I am called Opportunity."

"Um," said the man. "You call yourself Opportunity, but you look like hard work to me."

And he slammed the door.—Pittsburgh Post.

Francis Arithmetic.

Three-year-old Amy, who had a very fine little brother, was being put through a lesson in arithmetic by her uncle. She had successfully added one and one, but stuck at two and one.

"Your name," said her uncle, "has two children. If she had one more what would that make?"

"Oh," cried Amy, "that would make my name, away!"—Woman's Home Companion.

A Gentle Hint.

"I'm hungry," said the out of a job Canadian.

"Well," said the kind hearted manager, "can't I give you something to appease your hunger?"

"Surely," said the actor. "I believe I prefer a few dates."—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

A COLD However Slight MAY TURN INTO BRONCHITIS.

You should never neglect a cold, however slight. If you do not treat it in time it will, in all possibility, develop into bronchitis, pneumonia, asthma, or some other serious throat or lung trouble.

On the first sign of a cold or cough it is advisable to treat it at once, and not let it run on for an indefinite period.

For this purpose there is nothing to equal Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, a remedy that has been universally used for the past twenty-five years.

You do not experiment when you get it. Mrs. Louis Lalonde, Penicanguishene, Ont., writes:—"When my little boy was two years old he caught a cold which turned into bronchitis. I tried everything to cure him, even to doctor's medicine, but it did him no good. One day I was advised to give Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup a trial, and before he had had a bottle used, he was cured. I would advise all mothers to try it, as good results will follow. My home is never without it."

See that you get "Dr. Wood's," as there are numerous imitations. It is put up in a yellow wrapper, 3 pints, the trade mark; the price, 25 and 50 cents. Manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

BRITISH AMAZONS

Women Who Could Pull an Oar With the Best of Men.

WON FAME ALL OVER EUROPE.

Ann Glanville and Her Champions Not Only Beat Their Own Countrymen, but Went to Have and Outrowed Half a Dozen Crack French Crews.

In the boat races that have from time immemorial been rowed on the Hamoaze, the estuary of the Tamar and the "Plymouth" of the harbor of Plymouth, the women of Salsbury have often distinguished themselves. In "Around and About Salsbury" P. E. R. Porter writes of Ann Glanville, whose amazing feat of rowing made her famous all over Europe. "Some sixty or seventy years ago the queen of Salsbury was often seen not only on the Hamoaze, but wherever aquatic sports were held. It was not often that Ann and the crew that she stroked were beaten in a match—never by other women.

"They competed for prizes at Hull, Liverpool, Portsmouth and Dartmouth, and it must not be supposed that a crew of men ever yielded the palm out of masculine courtesy, for, as a matter of fact, the men did not at all relish being beaten by a 'parade of females.'"

"In some of these contests Mrs. Harriet Salsbury, a daughter of Ann Glanville, who had fourteen children, rowed with her mother. As she was the youngest member of the crew she pulled bow oar, the least arduous post in the boat.

"Once this crew, rowing a match at Fleetwood in the presence of Queen Victoria, gave the men so sound a beating that her majesty asked to be presented to her.

"However, the most famous event of Ann's life took place in 1850, when the "Salsbury" of P. E. R. Porter suggested to her that she and her crew should go to Harle to the regatta there and challenge the Frenchmen, a proposition which was readily assented to.

"When the Frenchmen heard of the challenge from the Angles de Salsbury they shrugged their shoulders, for they scarcely regarded it as serious. And when the women appeared in their white frocks and pinked out with blue ribbons, in their short petticoats and white dresses, with blue neckerchiefs tied over the shoulders and crossed behind the back, they looked puzzled.

"The challenge of the Englishwomen created a stir not only in Harle, but for miles along the French coast and for many leagues inland too. And in England the greatest interest was aroused.

"When the day of the regatta came there was a vast concourse of people to witness the contest. Every quayside, hilltop and boatman from a view of the course could be had was crowded. Every one was on tip-top of expectation. Before the start the Salsbury crew had a pull round to show themselves. Their steady stroke, the way in which they kept their bodies to their work and the perfect ease and grace with which they pulled made the French open their eyes.

"Ann and her crew had not the best start possible, but at first did they have the advantage. Five minutes after the start six boats were ahead of the English. But they soon tested their opponents' nerve. Ann, who had the stroke oar, gave the word:

"Send your backs to it, maidens, and launch for old England!"

"One by one, with a cheer from old Ann, they passed the six boats. At length they drove their boat, with the British color flying gayly at the fore, into the lead. It was a long course and a hard pull, but they soundly thrashed the Frenchmen. Ann and her 'maidens' beat them by 100 yards. The members of this famous crew were Ann Glanville, Harriet Hosking, Jane House and Amelia Lee. A man acted as coxswain.

"Mrs. Hosking was so elated at the victory that on reaching the committee boat she plunged into the water, dived under the vessel and came up with a dripping and drooping cap on the opposite side.

"Ann Glanville died in 1880, at the age of eighty-five, dignified, vigorous and handsome to the last. Her character was summed up by a neighbor in these words:

"Her was honest to a farthing, clean as a sheet and kind hearted as a queen."

Rose to the Occasion.

"Do you know, Miss Doodles," asks the earnest young man, "that if one were on Sirius the orbit of the earth would look just about the size of a finger ring?"

"I beg your pardon, Harold," she replies. "I was musing for the moment and did not catch everything you said, but I heard you say something serious and a ring—Chicago Post."

The Steering Committee.

Reginald Clark: It is necessary for me to ask the mother of the bride if she has nothing to say before I proceed with the ceremony.

Mother (in hockmood):—All I have to say is that if I hadn't had a good deal to say already they never would have landed here.

If it were possible to heal sorrow by weeping gold were less prized than grief—Sophocles.

BABY WOOD DUCKS.

The Journey to the Water When They Leave Their Larky Nests.
Somebody, Burroughs I believe, said "the notion that the mother duck takes the young birds one by one in her beak and carries them to the creek is doubtless crookedness." I could not see how else it could be done, writes a contributor to the Youth's Companion, and I spent several valuable days of several different years in trying to find out how it was done.

The thing that puzzled me was how the mother wood duck (Aix sponsa) managed to get her numerous progeny down from their lofty cradle and upon the water without injuring them. I was not alone in my ignorance, some very eminent ornithologists have wondered about the matter as well.

After a five mile pull one hot June day I let my boat lie in the lake and watched the play of shadows on the calm water.

A splash near by attracted my attention, and I looked round to see a mother wood duck just alighting. There was a little boy by her side, but I did not see how it got there. In a moment the old duck rose, circled a few times to gain altitude, and made direct for a hole in a large dead tree a few rods away. The hole was at least sixty feet from the ground. The duck seized her body through the opening and disappeared. She came back in a few moments with a duckling in her mouth. After resting for a moment she came sailing down and placed this baby beside the first. One after another she carried down the entire brood of eleven little black and white fluffy balls. They snuggled their heads and tucked in the water as if that were not the first time they had ever been in swimming.

The mother duck returned once more to the tree to make sure that she had not overlooked one, came back, placed herself at the head of the procession, raised her tail to her lap and swam away, followed by the entire family in single file.

A QUAINT PHILOSOPHER.

He Deftly Turned His Little Faults Into Real Virtues.

In August Strindberg's "Easter Eggs and Stories," translated from the Swedish by Volney Swenson Howard, is a quaint bit of conscience easing reasoning by a matter of fact philosophical philosopher. He had a partner, who posed as a real, a philosophical philosopher. But this matter of fact fact was "full of little eccentricities." For instance, he smoked tobacco all day long; he could never leave a close door after him; he stuck the knife into his mouth instead of the fork; he went about in the moon with his hat on; he manacled his nails in the middle of the atelier, and at night he had to have three mugs of oil. He was full of faults.

To his faultless partner the matter of fact one thus justified his shortcomings: "First consider! I do not drink to excess, therefore I attend to the business. I don't steal, I never speak ill of you, I never complain, never turn white like black, I never annoy customers. I rise early in the morning. I trim my nails to keep my deskwork clean. I keep my hat on my head so as not to shed hairs on the plate. I smoke tobacco to clear the atmosphere of poisonous fumes. I leave the doors ajar to avoid making a noise in the atelier. I drink ale to night so as not to fall into the whiskey habit. I stick my knife into my mouth to avoid sticking myself with the fork."

Verily, then, art a great philosopher," said the partner. "New well be friends, and thus I will make headway."

Bound to Hit Something.

There is a cross eyed man in Cleveland who is an enthusiastic trap shooter. He is, furthermore, no expert. His record is a thing to be proud of. One day last autumn a merry friend ventured to question him thus:

"You are no horribly concerned that I don't see how you are able to shoot straight."

"I tell you my secret. I squat along the barrel with my right eye, and I squat along the right barrel with my left eye."

"Yes?"

"And then I fire both barrels"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Courts of Love.

"Courts of love" were established in the middle ages, when chivalry was at its height and love the serious occupation of life among the higher classes of society. The "court of love" was established in the south of France in the twelfth century and was composed of knights, poets and ladies, and their decisions on subtle questions connected with affairs of the heart were given with great formality.

The German I and You.

It is surprising when any one takes the trouble to notice how many letters begin with the pronoun "I." To Germans this is a conviction, and their etiquette in letter writing forbids it. It is probably on the same principle that they write I (Ich) always with a small letter and you (du) with a capital, reversing the English custom.

She Agreed.

Will—The first of an old schoolmate is—er—well, it might be called both meet and drink.

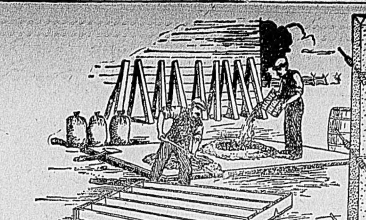

Bertha—Yes; that's what you mean usually do in the circumstances.

"Ich."

"Meet and drink."

It is a sure cure for all the above ailments. Sold by all druggists or mailed in plain blue box of 100 doses for 25 cents. The Wood Medicine Company, Toronto, Ont."

Turn idle hours into concrete fence posts

EVERY farmer finds himself now and then with a few idle hours in which both himself and his help must look for "odd jobs" to keep them busy. Use these hours to make concrete fence posts. You can make a few at a time, storing them until needed. Then when you want a fence in the new field, your posts—everlasting, concrete posts—are all ready to use. The making of fence posts is only one of scores of everyday jobs for concrete on the farm described in the book.

DISTRIBUTION OF SEED GRAIN AND POTATOES.

From The Dominion Experimental Farms.

By instructions of the Hon. Minister of Agriculture a distribution of superior sorts of grain and potatoes will be made during the coming winter and spring to Canadian farmers. The samples for general distribution will consist of spring wheat (5 lbs.), white oats (4 lbs.), barley (5 lbs.), and field peas (5 lbs.). These will be sent out from Ottawa. A distribution of potatoes (in 3 lb. samples) will be carried on from several of the experimental farms, the Central Farm at Ottawa supplying only the province of Ontario and Quebec. All samples will be sent free, by mail. Applicants must give particulars in regard to the soil on their farms, and some account of their experience with such kinds of grain (or potatoes) as they have grown, so that a promising sort for their conditions may be selected.

Each application must be separate and must be signed by the applicant. Only one sample of grain and one of potatoes can be sent to each farm. Applications on any kind of printed form cannot be accepted. If two or more samples are asked for in the same letter only one will be sent.

As the supply of seed is limited, farmers are advised to apply early, but the applications will not usually be filled in the exact order in which they are received. Preference will always be given to the most thoughtful and explicit requests. Applications received after the end of January will probably be too late.

All applications for grain (and applications from the provinces of Ontario and Quebec for potatoes) should be addressed to the Dominion Experimental Farm, Ottawa. Such applications require postage. If otherwise addressed delay and disappointment may occur.

Applications for potatoes, from farmers in any other provinces should be addressed (postage prepaid) to the Superintendent of the nearest Branch Experimental Farm in that province.

J. H. GRISDALE,
Director, Dominion Experimental Farm.
